The Challenge

Prior to using Closinglock, Crawford Law Group was struggling with an outdated way of sending and receiving information from its clients. Most clients did not have a way to print or scan documents after filling them out, and did not feel comfortable sending sensitive information this way.

The Solution

Crawford Law Group now has an updated, organized, and professional way to send and receive information with its clients. Closinglock enabled an easier way to get information in a timely manner, and provided peace of mind that is was been sent securely.
